BEHIND The scenes in BUSINESS BY JOHN CRADDOCK

BUSINESS—Easter's importance as a trade factor is emphasized in figures showing nation's department store sales for the week ending on March 29 were 34 per cent above the same week of 1940.

This follows five or six weeks in which the gains for same-week-last-year grew steadily smaller, and even turned into a two per cent drop for week ending March 22. Explanation is that the 34 per cent gain is for a week corresponding to the one that came after Easter in 1940. A more accurate line on the actual pace of retail business, however, is gained from the fact that, for the four-week period also ending March 29, store sales were 9 per cent ahead of same period last year—and we still have the climax of this year's Easter shopping rush ahead of us.

WAR ON 'JALOPIES'—A major headache for safety authorities—how to reduce hazards created by some 8,000,000 aged "jalopies" roaming the nation's roads—is being attacked this spring by one auto manufacturer who declares that "sales, not laws, is the broom that can sweep the roadways clean of undesirable motor vehicles." Describing the over age cars as menaces to highway safety, Joseph W. Frazer, president of Willys-Overland Motors, has called on his organization to conduct a strong spring "offensive" to replace them with new cars that would be not only safe and comfortable, but would help protect the financial resources of the nation by cutting the cost of motoring. High cost of operation makes "mechanical purse-snatchers" out of antique cars—an unwarranted waste, he said, especially in these times when we all are faced with higher taxes to pay for the nation's arms. He said one factor in the current trend toward low-cost transportation was the technical excellence of modern four-cylinder engines, which deliver up to 63 horsepower, yet average up to 35 miles per gallon of gas.

INTERDEPENDENT INDUSTRY—How production stoppages or slowdowns in a key plant can hold up work in many others depending on it for special parts is shown in an analysis of effects of the Allis-Chalmers strike in Milwaukee, one of the most stubborn stoppages in the defense situation. By this tie-up alone, says Iron Age, operations in other plants which, all told, have about a third of all national defense contracts, are affected. Battleships and airplane construction, and even efforts to strengthen the Panama Canal defenses, are impaired in a varying degree. Equipment for the new Ford plane factory has been held up; likewise aircraft production at Bendix. Compressor units will not be shipped on time to government testing air fields. Ingersoll-Rand, big producer of precision gears, waits for electrical equipment from the Milwaukee plant. Metal producers, Hercules Powder, Du Pont, others, find needed electrical equipment or turbines held up; and construction work on 25 destroyers, due for completion in June, is delayed, the analysis shows.

PRICE SPREAD—When a housewife spends a dollar for fresh fruit or vegetables at a grocery store, the farmer who actually grew the produce may get as little as 30 cents for it. In this unfortunate fact lies one of the greatest problems of agriculture today. Straight-line mass distribution is helping to solve the problem, however, according to a recent statistical report by John A. Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company. It shows that growers and shippers of fresh fruits and vegetables are now getting 53.3 cents of the consumer's dollar on all produce marketed through that company and its buying affiliate, the Atlantic Commission company—a 13 per cent greater return than in 1937. This return is cited as being well above the estimated national average for produce marketed through all channels.

THINGS TO WATCH FOR—New materials in baseball paraphernalia; in addition to the plastic under-cap "bean-ball protectors" there will be home plates made of unbreakable plastic instead of wood or rubber, and bases of sponge rubber instead of canvas bags. . . . oats as a prime ingredient of bread; it's being introduced in the Chicago area. . . . synthetic neckwear, made entirely of nylon, last year's hosiery sensation—to be available in 14 solid colors besides black and white. . . .

SALONIKA FALLS IN SWIFT NAZI OFFENSIVE

Strategic Value Of Gains
Against Serbs May Imperil
British Line Of Defense

ISTANBUL, Turkey, (U)—The Yugoslav ambassador was reported today to have informed the Turkish government under the Balkan entente that Bulgarian troops were participating in fighting against Yugoslavia.

Diplomatic quarters here regarded the Balkan entente as a "dead letter" and there was doubt that Turkey would feel herself obliged to go to the aid of Yugoslavia.

Serbs in Albania
ATHENS, (U)—Yugoslav armed forces, driving against Italian troops in Albania, have crossed the Drin river in northern Albania and are sweeping into the interior of the country, a Yugoslav general headquarters communique reported today.

Jugoslavia apparently was attempting to aid Greek forces, driving up from the south, in knocking the Italian forces out of Albania before German columns driving across the narrow waist of Yugoslavia could make contact with them.

Massawa Taken
LONDON, (U)—Massawa, Italy's oldest colonial port, has been occupied by British Empire troops. The reported fall of Massawa seals the fate of Italy's oldest colony, Eritrea.

100 Pct. Boost In Tax Urged

Individual Federal Income
Levy May Be Upped To
8 Per Cent Next Year

WASHINGTON, (U)—Sen. Walter F. George, D. Ga., proposed today that individual income tax rates be increased 100 per cent and that corporation taxes be raised 25 per cent to help finance the multi-billion dollar defense and British-aid programs.

George is chairman of the senate foreign relations committee and second ranking member of the senate finance committee, which will consider new tax legislation soon.

He suggested the present four per cent tax on individual incomes be increased to eight per cent and that the base corporate tax be boosted from 24 to 30 per cent. He estimated that the two increases would bring in $1,000,000,000 annually.

Sen. Robert A. Taft, R. O., today claimed that an increase in the normal tax rate to eight per cent would be "insufficient." He reiterated his previous statements that the rate be raised to 10 per cent.

George and Taft both believed the present exemptions of $800 for single men and $2,000 for married men would not be lowered materially. They pointed out that the additional revenue would hardly pay for the additional cost of collection.

Water Hearing Put Over One Week

Hearing upon the order to show cause issued out of Superior Court on the complaint of El Dorado Irrigation District against the Pacific Gas & Electric Company, is scheduled for Thursday, April 17th.

The hearing had been set for April 10th, and is now postponed one week.

The issue arises following filing of an action by the irrigation district praying for a temporary restraining order, which was granted, and a permanent injunction barring the company from interrupting a continuous flow of water to the district from its reservoir at the forebay.

The suit was brought last week when the company shut off the flow of water in connection with plans for undertaking improvements to its ditch east of the forebay.

A report that the differences might be settled without going into court could not be confirmed on Wednesday.

TRAVEL SECTION MET TUESDAY

Series Of Interesting
Events On Shakespeare
Club Program In April

A general forum followed the presentation of subject material at the travel section of the Shakespeare Club held at the clubhouse Tuesday, April 8th.

Mrs. M. P. Bennett read an article by Julian Bryan, noted magazine writer, on the economic and industrial conditions of both Chile and Peru; the influence of the United States upon their way of life and the necessity of our closest cooperation to preserve the unity which now exists between ourselves and the countries of South America.

"A New Doctrine for the Americas," was suggested by Mrs. B. C. Celio, as an interesting book that might be quite appropriate for a reviewer under the present study the club is now pursuing. It is, she stated according to commentators, a journalistic history setting forth principles of the Monroe Doctrine and various other phases of our relationship to our South American neighbors.

A fascinating experience told by E. Coronado Suarez in the Pan American Bulletin, entitled "Taking Your Car to Cuba," was read by Mrs. Robert Carpenter. The winter describes in every detail a drive through this wonderful land of fruits, flowers and delightful climate over the Central Highway, some six hundred miles in length, and a visit to all the charming cities including Havana and Santiago.

Leaving the Latin American countries after brief discussion, the section listened to another letter from the globe-trotting friend of Mrs. E. D. Gordon reciting her experiences in Germany and Bulgaria just prior to the outbreak of the present war. Suspicion of everyone foreign was even then at its height and the writer was happy to leave that land of doubts and fears for one of more serene surroundings.

Traveling northward, she journeyed toward the Land of the Midnight Sun to within five hundred miles of the North Pole. She described the Polar Ice Barrier, the glaciers in the Arctic and the exquisite colorings photographed against the faultless blue sky. One thing of icy beauty, according to her, has never really seen Europe without having witnessed this revelation, and the impressions remain miles of the North Pole. She debuts of a peace which it is difficult to disturb.

Mrs. Phil Volz, who recently attended the Northern Convention of Women's Clubs at Willows, gave the views of Colonel B. Davies, a speaker and English army officer, who served within the British forces in Africa. Concerning the conflict now going on between his country and the Axis powers, he stated that the British courage will never yield and that this virtue is exemplified as clearly in the women as in the men. Women pilots and mechanics are in evidence and that their usefulness and capability are now clearly recognized by the British government.

The president, Mrs. John Nelson, stated that reservations for the dinner dance to be given at the club house on Saturday, April 19th, may be made with Mrs. J. A. Hodapp.

Program Day will be observed on Tuesday, April 15th, with Mrs. Amer Stolz, state chairman of music, as guest speaker. Pot luck luncheon

U.S. TRANSFERS 10 CUTTERS TO BRITAIN

Operation Of Danish Ships
Considered; Confiscation
Of Seized Boats Possible

WASHINGTON, (U)—President Roosevelt has authorized the release of 10 Coast Guard cutters to the British Navy. White House Secretary Stephen T. Early announced today.

Early, refusing to release the names of the cutters which will be transferred, said however, that they are all good ships and were constructed between the years 1928 and 1932.

The transfer, designed to add strength to Britain's naval arm in the battle of the Atlantic against the German submarine threat, was ordered under the lend-lease law, Early said.

Early transfer of a number of American cargo ships to the British was forecast on the basis of the disclosure by President Roosevelt that he plans to take over and operate the 39 Danish merchant ships seized in American ports.

Mr. Roosevelt will ask congress tomorrow for legislation authorizing the government to acquire the Danish vessels by purchase. Government legal experts say the legislation will in effect, authorize "technical requisitioning" of the ships. The Danish minister has acquiesced.

The President made it clear that the possibility of confiscating the seized German and Italian ships has not been abandoned, pointing out that he has ample authority under the forfeiture provisions of the world war espionage act to do so.

But the most controversial discussion here, and the one certain to raise the most furor when congress returns next week, was about convoys.

Strawberry Resort Leased To Idaho Hotel Associates

Strawberry Resort, the beauty spot developed by Fred Baumhoff near the foot of Lover's Leap on the Pony Express route about forty miles east of Placerville, has been leased to the Owyhee Hotel Company, of Boise, Idaho, for a ten-year period.

Confirmation of the report and the announcement of the length of the lease was given Tuesday by Mr. Baumhoff, here on a visit from his Idaho mining interests.

Prominent in the Owyhee Hotel Company are Leo J. Falk and C. F. Mann, who visited Strawberry Resort about six weeks ago and, in the course of their visit here, met with the membership of the El Dorado County Chamber of Commerce.

The leasing agreement, it was understood, was under consideration at that time.

Mr. Falk and Mr. Mann were accompanied by a group of men interested in various phases of year around resort development and all indications are that it is the intention of the lessors to seek to establish Strawberry Resort as a headquarters for all winter recreational activity.

Printed matter currently being circulated by the resort sets the opening of the 1941 season for May 26th and names Mr. Mann as the manager of the property.

TIMBER LEAGUE TO ROLL SPHERES TONIGHT AT PEAR BOWL

The weather may be delaying the start in the woods but it won't interfere with the regular round in the Timber League of the county bowling association, scheduled tonight at the Pear Bowl.

Tuesday night the Pony Express League bowled its round with the Gene Morrisons piling up a three game total of 2405 pins to take three games from the Lions.

Observers noted that the Gene Morrisons were "hotter than firecrackers" and at the end of two games their pin total was from 150 pins to 200 pins greater than any other club then bowling.

The Cannon Chevrolets took three from the Standard Oils and St. Patricks took two out of three from the Coca-Colas.

"The plans which the committee has made under the direction of our chairman, Guy E. Wentworth, are beginning to mature," Mr. Willard said. "We have passed the preliminary phase of the arrangements and are moving rapidly ahead toward the actual working out of the plans we have been working on for several months past."

SYNOPSIS

Kitty Foyle, in her early teens, has been sent by her dear old Pop, from the home town in Placerville, and is living with her uncle and aunt in Manitowish, Illinois, west of Chicago. With Molly Scharr, neighbor and fellow student, they explore the local life, from a high-school girl's standpoint... and form some friendships... Druggists, bums and feds.

Uncle Elmer was certainly damn decent to me. It must have been a shock to him to have kids frolicking round the place after that orderly routine of his. Even each of his golf clubs had a little shammy pouch tied over its head so it wouldn't get rusty. He spent so much energy on details like that he had no time left to enjoy the game. He put out a croquet set for us on his sacred lawn, and I can see now how patient he was picking up bobby pins and the caps of cologne bottles. He had genius for choosing the wrong kind of clothes, tweeds that were the color of straw and would have given Wyn apoplexy. Sundays he always had an overcoat with a velvet collar, it made my spine creep to see it rub his pink neck. He shaved too close and then put talcum on his face; he carried a show-off handkerchief in his breast-pocket, folded in four points; he'd sneeze all over the room sooner than snatch it out. But what's the use of kidding people who don't even know they're being kidded? He was a Good Provider, and one or two of those don't do a family any harm.

CHAPTER VI

But that's it grand and gorgeous to get back to Philly that first time, after nine months away. Uncle took you begin to look like a female." We had breakfast in the station restaurant, and as usual I went over to the marble fountain in the waiting room looking for a drink and found no water in it.

Oh it's good, seeing things again you've been carrying in your mind all the while and didn't even know you knew. It's like when you lay down a lighted cigarette; you cruise round the apartment doing this and that but something inside remembers about the cigarette and you always come back to pick it up just in time. At least I do, Wyn always noticed.

Pop had a button off his vest. Now I was the Woman in the family and that sort of thing was up to me. He always put any buttons that fell off in the old pink and gilt moustache cup on the left end of the kitchen shelf. I expected to find plenty of them, and I was right. "Mac's been sewing on buttons for me," he said, "but he figures every other one is enough."

The house was pretty dusty but old Myrtle had done a job of cleaning in my room. I could smell hot shingles on the roof, same as always; and there was the little narrow window over the side entry that gave me a glimpse out on the street. And the old faded photograph of Mother when she was still a young lady in Germantown before she married into Frankford. That's quite a gulf, if you don't know it.

That little strip of window was what I used to look at when I woke up mornings as a kid. The old wooden bed, with slats, was set so I could just see through it. There wasn't any blind on that window—it wasn't a real window, just a pane let into a jog in the wall. I was waiting for Mother to come and call blast about the Middle West, because till I got used to it again Grissom Street looked a bit small compared to Thanksgiving Avenue. I told her about high school, and about Bernie in his uniform.

That night after supper we sat out on the porch, Pop in the old green rocker and me on a mat on the steps. Lena McTaggart and Nellie Simmons stopped by to give me a once-over but I didn't like Nellie any better than I had before. They tried to give me a song-and-dance about big times at Frankford High but I came right back with some Manitowish dope. They boasted about their school song and like a fool I hummed Old Manitowish to them. That was a humiliation because they spawked with laughter and said it was only the tune of Maryland, My Maryland. "Never you mind, Kitty," said Pop when they'd gone. "They don't plump out the way you nice corned Illinois gals do. Tell me all about Pattysheils and Molly Scharr, and you can throw in a little information about Elmer and Hattie."

You know, the old man was smart. He knew when to treat a kid of fourteen like a woman and when to treat her like a baby. That's not so easy.

The old man and I went down to the Shore. We went down by bus to Tidewater. I guess I'm a snob at heart because when I used to try to tell Wyn about the Shore I always found it hard to say it was Tidewater where we stayed. Of course Wyn's kind of people don't think there is any Shore unless just the right part of Cape May. Anywhere else the ocean is sort of polluted. Sure, Tidewater's a terrible place and terrible people, but somehow the Ocean seems to have forgiven them. Wyn got the idea after while, because I remember him saying one time we stopped on a lonely beach, God must have loved the ocean, He made so much of it. Wyn, you blessed, how could you quote Lincoln? He was such plain folks, and from Illinois too.

The sun was good for the old man, and when he wasn't worrying about me we were swell company. It's all just whiteness and heat in my mind now, and the cutting edges of that grand Funk to hold a thing in your mind and keep it that way always. Pop with his face in the black shade of the umbrella and the rest of him cooking. His beard didn't grow fast enough to prevent him getting burned and the red showed through the grizzle. The place was doing him good; he wasn't drinking too much, and he was taking bicarb for his arthritis or sciatica or whatever it was, and it seemed to help. Oh, he'd get his moods, they'd come down on him like fog, that's the Irish of it I guess. Then all of a sudden he'd snap out of it. I'd feel him looking at me and he'd say "Be's you got bugs?"

Of course I make the proper answer: "Sure I are."

He says, "Everybody do!" That was the signal that meant Everything's hunky-dory, let's talk. Maybe I was a little shy of him, because he looked so strange and half-grown beard. Partly the beard helped because I was the only person there who knew it was really just the same old Pop under that terrible thicket.

I wish I could have thrown my arms round his neck and kissed him. The boatman towed us out a way and we'd anchor there in a leaky punt lowering fishheads on a string weighted with rusty bolts. I wore overalls so I didn't mind the muck, and as long as we kept those big brandishing crabs down Pop's end of the boat I'd forget all about the fishing. Warm salt breeze and the stink of fishheads and once and a while on a gust comes the sound of that steam-piano on the Boardwalk carousel. I was in a dream, I wasn't thinking about anything, or wanting anything, or scared of anything—just learning what living feels like. It was what they call the air, Pause for Station Identification. This is Station K.F., at the Top of the Dial. And here's your favorite Newscaster, Kitty Foyle. This is Kitty Foyle, just beginning to learn about herself; fourteen years old. Oh, lovely things are going to happen to Kitty Foyle. Beautiful blond man with ruddy brown cheeks, shaved so clean, and wearing creased ice cream pants, are going to look strangely at Kitty Foyle on the Boardwalk and she walks serenely by. I wonder if Kitty Foyle sways gracefully from behind, when they turn to look after her, or does she wobble like those women at the boarding house?

I know now what they call it, Adolescence. What a dumb word for a sweet thing. A skinny kid in dirty fish-smell overalls, black hair sticky with salt under a straw hat, bare brown feet in sneakers, and broken fingernails, leaning over a snow and thinking she's the Lady of the Lake. The hot yellow sun spreads out into the slopping brown water like cream in iced coffee, you can't see far into it, only your crabbing line sloping down in shadow.

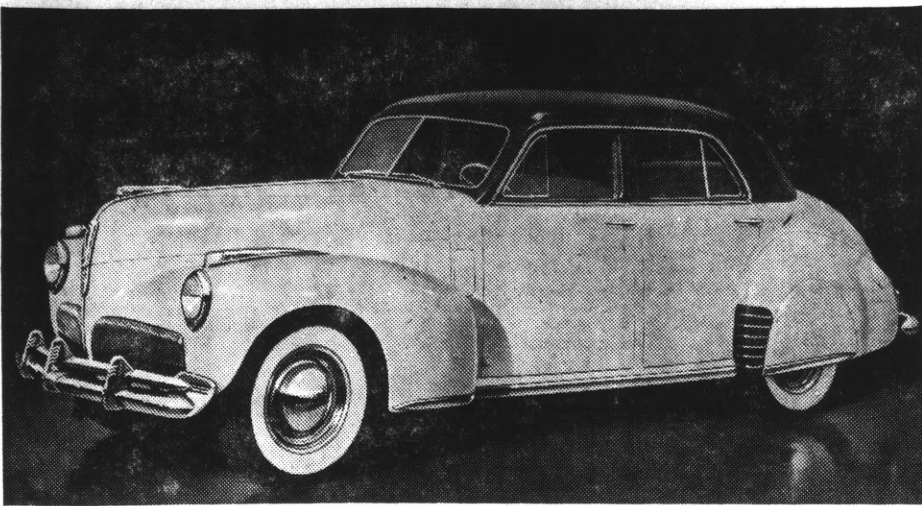

I was proud of some new summer dresses Aunt Hattie and I picked out at the Mode in Paris which was Manitowish's big number for Girls and Misses. Pop saw the labels. "I suppose that means Paris, Illinois," He was tickled to death to see clothes again, but what he said was: "When I look at young gals and think of all the crazy things they're going to have to wear before they get through, I wonder they have the courage to grow up."

Pop lay down to get some rest, and I straightened up my stuff and then I talked to Myrtle on the back steps while she cut string beans. We had Myrtle on full time now; I was glad, I'd been worrying maybe I'd have to do the cooking. I gave Myrtle a full

SHINGLE SPRINGS NEWS

Mrs. John Miller, Phyllis and Shirley Barton had a narrow escape while returning from Sacramento on Monday evening just as they were coming in to Folsom when a stray bullet from some careless person with a gun shot in the direction of the highway and the window was struck. It was just the glass that saved perhaps some of them from being hurt.

Several from here attended the Missouri Flat card party last week also the one given by the Rebekahs in Placerville and all report both a great success.

Mrs. Frank Hunt of Brownsville and Mrs. Louie Russi of Marysville spent a couple of days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. O. M. McNeal of Sacramento spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Scheiber.

Remember When?

Do you remember the first, queer-looking flying machine, the first fire-fighting apparatus of which your town proudly boasted, your first picture with the family group at home, and your first car, which shook like a leaf when you got up to forty miles an hour? These, and other fond recollections, may be brought to mind by the accompanying pictures sent in by Don Dawson, general sales manager of the General Petroleum Mobilgas Corporation, for addition to their "Remember When" library. Yes, pictures of the good old days bring forth many interesting reminiscences.

LOTUS NEWS NOTES

Whist card players remember the date and come to Coloma Saturday night, April 19, and play at the game whether you take home a prize or not as there will be a lot of nice prizes to take home and we will say little about the spread after the game, only there will be a good one on hand and plenty of it.

The dry season will soon be here and fires are liable to come any time and destroy our homes. We will suggest that the people of Lotus and Coloma get together and organize a fire protection company by getting a small tank, engine and hose which can easily be paid for by giving a few dances and donations.

Chester Vaughn, an old fireman, a welder for the dredge company here, will give all his assistance to help get started as he is well acquainted with such business. Had we any kind of small equipment at the time the Reaside home burned, 50 gallons of water would have saved the building from a total loss. The writer will donate $10.00 to start the ball rolling—who will take the lead to help us get started?

E. Schwabenberg of Penryn, Placer county, was here Monday selling and taking orders for the Fuller Brush Co.

State fruit and vegetable inspector Loring White came over from Marysville last Saturday afternoon and spent the weekend visiting with his mother, Mrs. Jessie White. Loring is making many improvements on the home here during his short visits and always is busy when he comes to Lotus.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Reaside and Mrs. Lottie Galleher were dinner guests at the Williamson home on Wednesday evening after which five of the group drove to Missouri Flat to attend the monthly community card party.

Mrs. M. P. Bennett and daughters, Mrs. M. Baer and Mrs. Herbert were Lotus visitors on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carpenter took advantage of the fine weather on Sunday to go driving and were seen in Lotus about 4 p. m.

Henry Bacchi, Mrs. Irma Lawyer, Mrs. Lottie Galleher and Mr. and Mrs. Reaside attended the card party at Meadowbrook hall Friday night.

Mrs. Louis Veerkamp of Gold Hill and daughter Inez Veerkamp, were early Sunday morning callers in Lotus.

R. V. Sheldon of Placerville, was in Lotus on Sunday.

Mrs. M. Campoy and two children have left for a week's visit to Mrs. Campoy's father's home in Portland, Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Baynton, Mr. and Mrs. Al Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Vaughn of Lotus were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Ruckman at Coloma.

Behind Scene In Business

one of the most notable of the poems inspired by the current war, Alice Duer Miller's "The White Cliffs of Dover," has been put on records in a Victor album with Lynn Fontanne reciting, and background music composed by Dr. Frank Black . . . a hairpin magnet, which will locate and extract, by magnetism, the hairpins you have used to produce those curls . . . a new spot for carrying photos of the wife and-or kiddies—in a small leather folder attached to key or watch chain . . . a new pastie kitchen knife, one of whose main features is that it can be sharpened by honing with an ordinary steel knife.

HOLIDAYS, INC.—Another indication of the importance of holidays as a business factor is seen in Albany, N. Y., where the legislature has passed a bill moving Labor Day back to the second Monday in September. Reason is to extend by one week the vacation season, which is pretty big business in upstate New York, but traditionally ends on Labor Day.

Third Effect of Totalitarianism —

The Stamping Out of Christianity in Germany godlessness is in the saddle and freedom to worship, a deep-rooted democratic institution, is gone. Between 9,000 and 11,000 Catholic schools have been liquidated. Of the 18,000 Protestant pastors, 1,300 have been arrested since 1934. Countless priests have been executed or imprisoned.

Fourth Effect of Totalitarianism —

The Degradation of Women and the Regimentation of Children The policy of Nazi Germany is to use women for one main purpose — to breed cannon fodder. In line with this policy, children are taken away from their parents and regimented at an early age in a severe course of training for bloodshed and conquest.

Fifth Effect of Totalitarianism —

WAR. We all know the consequences of the German war policy. A mad armament race — Munich — jitters — more armament — threats — ultimatums — an agonized world.

A Question Of Food or Finer Home

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

"Dear Dr. Myers: I am a widow with four children, three boys, ages 9, 11, 13, and one girl age 4. Our total income is about $50 a month. As you know this is a very small amount to raise four children on. I have two sisters and three brothers but they all have families and cannot help.

"My problem is this: I am living in a poor neighborhood, as I have to live in a very low-priced place. My relatives think I should move to a better section, even if it meant cutting down on food and clothing. I do not agree with them as I think it is more important for growing children to have good food. As it is, it takes all my ingenuity to contrive well-balanced meals on what I have to spend for food. I do all my own baking and other work. Although I am of this opinion, at the same time it worries me that perhaps I am not doing the best thing for the children. At present they are very good, honest children, although the boys are a little boisterous, they are healthy and seem to be sound in every way."

Agreed With Mother I wrote this mother that I agreed with her. If this mother can provide the children with wholesome food, her love, companionship and wise guidance of them should be able to prevail against the probable unfavorable community influences. She cannot be sure that a neighborhood in which she paid twice as much for rent would have a better moral atmosphere. Obviously this mother's relatives are thinking chiefly of what their friends might think.

It is the American way for families to live in the most high-priced community they can afford. Many seem to make the choice largely from the angle of appearance. Some parents, indeed, choose an area in which to live far higher in price than their income can afford. They must cut somewhere. Therefore it may be on food, medical and dental care. These parents must themselves decide, of course. But young parents considering the kind of community (economically) in which they should rent or own a home should count first on the bare necessities of food and health care, on some insurance for the family's protection and on some savings for the children's education. Living in a neighborhood or up to a standard beyond the reasonable limits of the income, is hardly favorable to family happiness.

A selected list of books and pamphlets on rearing and guiding children happily may be had without cost by writing me at 235 E. 45th St., New York City, N. Y., enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

junction with the Italians in Albania and thus bottling up the main Yugoslav army from all direct connection with Greece.

The success of the Germans in cracking through the southern Yugoslav front appeared to outweigh, in its strategic implications, the successful break-through to Salonika.

There appeared to be grave danger that the Germans might quickly reach a position in northern Greece near the Albanian frontier from which they could attempt a turning movement against the line of defenses erected by the British along the west bank of the Vardar river and manned by a picked force of possibly more than 100,000 veterans of Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell's army of the Nile.

These troops have not yet gone into action. They have been held back, braced to meet the force of the Nazi attack after it had spent some of its original strength against the staunch but futile resistance put up by the Greeks at Rupel pass and other points along the northern frontier.

SOUFFLE

Dorothy Greig

WHEN mother wanted to imply that a certain thing was simple to do she'd say, "It's as easy as rolling off a log." And that is just the way it is with this souffle.

It has but three ingredients. Once they're mixed and in the oven, the souffle does the rest. It huffs and inches its way up until it is big and puffy and light.

When done, whip it from the oven and serve immediately while it is still proudly high and tender. With it offer fresh green salad, and there you have as delicious a main course for lunch or supper as ever you could wish.

Asparagus-Cheese Souffle
1 can condensed asparagus soup
3/4 cup sharp cheese, grated
4 eggs, separated
Combine the grated cheese and the asparagus soup and heat until the cheese is melted. Then stir in the egg yolks, adding one yolk at a time and beating well after adding each yolk; then cool. Beat the egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Fold the asparagus mixture into the beaten egg whites. Four into a buttered casserole; then place the casserole in pan with hot water. Bake in 300° oven for 1 hour to 1 hour and 15 minutes. Serve immediately. Serves 6.
